

Poker Academy Continues this month

Friday, 05 March 2010

From March 28th the Bluff Magazine Poker Academy will begin its second season taking place at Grosvenor Casino Victoria, aka The Vic and with six hours of training followed by a £1,000 freeroll it is guaranteed to be very popular.

The subject of this academy will be the 'the transition from online play to the live arena' and is set to cover hand tutorials with poker pros as well as constructive criticism on their game. However, more importantly lectures will focus on reading your opponent whether it be how they are acting or talking as well as using this information to estimate their hand range. In addition there will be a special focus on how to satellite into live tournaments.

The Poker Academy will be sponsored by the GUKPT with professional players Jeff Kimber and Stuart Rutter alongside Bluff Europe's own Alex Rousso. Cost is £199 and its limited to 30 people - For further information visit <http://www.bluffeurope.com/pokeracademy/>
